SUBJECT: Annual Report of the Indiana Public Defender Commission

I am pleased to enclose the Annual Report of the Indiana Public Defender Commission for fiscal year 2003-2004.

This memorandum provides a brief overview of funding for legal representation of indigent persons in Indiana who have a constitutional right to counsel at government expense. As noted in both this memorandum and in the Commission's Annual Report, Indiana does not provide adequate funds to assure effective defense services for these accused persons.

In 2002, indigent defense expenditures among the 50 states was collected under the auspices of the American Bar Association (ABA) and published on an ABA website. When populations and total expenditures are taken into account, these data show that on a per capita basis Indiana ranks 46th among the 50 states in total indigent defense expenditures. Only Arkansas, Mississippi, North Dakota, and Utah lag behind our state. See "State and County Expenditures for Indigent Defense," September 2003, at www.indigentdefense.org.

The impact of inadequate funding for indigent defense not only undermines the fairness of our justice system, but it also risks the conviction of innocent persons. As a recent report issued by the ABA's Standing Committee on Legal Aid and Indigent Defendants found, "indigent defense in the United States remains in a state of crisis, resulting in a system that lacks fundamental fairness and places poor persons at constant risk of wrongful conviction." GIDEON'S BROKEN PROMISE: AMERICA'S CONTINUING QUEST FOR EQUAL JUSTICE, page 38, available at www.indigentdefense.org.

In Indiana, the state's 92 counties provide the majority of the more than $30 million devoted to indigent defense. Meanwhile, the Commission is authorized by statute to reimburse counties 50% of their defense expenditures in capital cases and 40% of their defense expenditures in non-capital felony and juvenile delinquency cases if the counties comply with Commission standards for defense services. Thus, by virtue of its statute, the Commission has authority to set standards in an effort to improve the quality of defense representation in the state. (These standards are available at our website: www.in.gov.judiciary/admin/pub_def/)

The funds used by the Commission to reimburse Indiana counties are from the Public Defense Fund (a non-reverting fund), which either has received or will receive from the State the following sums:

- FY 2003-2004 -- $7 million;
- FY 2004-2005 -- $8 million; and
- FY 2005-2006 -- $10 million.

But not only is the overall level of financial support for indigent defense provided by Indiana's counties inadequate, as noted above, so, too, are the appropriations by the legislature for the Public Defense Fund. The Commission, therefore, cannot always reimburse counties the full 40% of their non-capital defense expenditures, which results in payments to counties being prorated as required by law.

FY 2003-2004

As noted above, the Public Defense Fund received payments from the state totaling $7 million during fiscal year 2003-2004. However, reimbursement claims to counties totaled $8,914,831. This sum was covered from the Public Defense Fund only because the Fund carried forward a balance from the preceding fiscal year (FY 2002-2003) and the Commission borrowed approximately $1.2 million from the Fund's 2004-2005 appropriation in order to cover reimbursements for the prior fiscal year.

FY 2004-2005

During the current fiscal year, the Commission has had to prorate its payments to counties for the second quarter of the fiscal year. This resulted in counties "losing" reimbursements totaling $771,538. The Commission also anticipates that there will be a shortfall in the Public Defense Fund balance to cover all county reimbursement claims for the third quarter of the fiscal year. While the Public Defense Fund was increased to $8 million for fiscal year 2004-2005, reimbursement claims are projected to be $10,174,286, as reflected in the attached chart.

FY 2005-2006

Although the Commission was pleased that the most recent legislative session increased the Public Defense Fund to $10 million beginning in fiscal year 2005-2006, we do not expect this sum to be sufficient to cover all county reimbursement claims. As shown in the attached chart, even if no additional counties qualify for reimbursements from the Public Defense Fund, total reimbursement requests are once again expected to exceed $10 million during 2005-2006. Moreover, if only three additional counties qualify for reimbursements, which the Commission believes is likely to occur, total reimbursement claims are expected to exceed $11 million.

* * *

The Commission's efforts during the past decade, in cooperation with the General Assembly and the Supreme Court of Indiana, have contributed to improvements in the State's system of indigent defense. However, Indiana's progress is clearly threatened unless the Public Defense Fund's annual appropriation continues to increase. As the chart attached to this memorandum indicates, if all 92 Indiana counties were to qualify for participation in the reimbursement program, the Public Defense Fund would require an appropriation of more than $13.5 million annually.

While the Commission appreciates that these are difficult financial times for the State of Indiana, we believe that the state's adversarial criminal justice system merits the full support of its elected officials. Unlike other state-funded programs, the provision of adequate counsel for the poor in criminal and juvenile cases is guaranteed as a matter of constitutional right.

For its part, please be assured that the Commission is committed to improving indigent defense representation in our state. But we cannot do it alone. We need the help of the executive, judicial, and legislative branches of government.
